INVITATION TO PARTICIPATE IN A RESEARCH PROJECT

Living with and providing support to people with spinal cord injury

- Do you provide active support to a person with a spinal cord injury who is living with you?
- Have you been providing this support for a period of 10 years or more?
- Would you like to share your experiences?
- Are you fluent in spoken English?

If you answered “yes” to all these statements, you are warmly invited to take part in a study to explore the experiences of partners and other long-term family based carers who are living with and supporting a person with a spinal cord injury. This study has ethics approval from the University of Sydney (HREC No 12701) and the research will be conducted by a Registered Nurse (Ms Laynie Pullin) as part of a PhD award. If you live in the Sydney area and identify as living with, and providing long-term support to, a person with a spinal cord injury further information and a Participant Information Sheet can be provided by phoning Laynie Hall Pullin on 0418 289027 or emailing lpul8417@uni.sydney.edu.au. The long-term aim of the study is to inform health and community-based services in this important area. The contribution of all long-term family-based carers supporting people with spinal cord injury is welcome.
